Assembled Plane in 97 1-5 Minutes.
A new sport, one that can be played only on a flying field, sprang into popularity here the other day when teams of airplane mechanics, working against time, demonstrated to a huge crowd on the main field just how fast an airplane can be dis-assembled and subsequently completely rigged ready for the pilot. The ship used for the initial contest was the Nieuport, type 27, with a 120-horse power LeRhône motor. Honors were won by a field eight team of five men, in the fast time of ninety-seven and one-fifth minutes. The assembly and test five came second in 103 minutes and field five was third in 104 minutes.—From the Plane News, France.

BOSCCHIE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

Painful Reminder.

"Convict No. 763 wants to be moved to another cell."
"What's the trouble?" asked the warden.
"He says the man in the adjoining cell haxes him."
"We don't allow anything like that in this prison."
"I know it's against the rules, but No. 763 was sent up for bigamy and he says whenever there isn't a guard around the fellow next to him hums a wedding march."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Gender.

A woman teacher was explaining gender to a grade of young children as visitors entered. They begged her to continue, as they would be delighted to hear the children's replies.
"Children," she asked, "what is 'girl,' 'woman,' 'man'?"
One little hand was so eager, she appealed to the owner, proudly.
"Well, Artie?"
Artie rose to the occasion.
"Girls is females, woman's a male, and man's a human bean."

HATS THAT START SPRING FASHIONS

New York.—Yankee Doodle, who stuck a feather in his cap and called it "macaroni," thereby creating a slang word for a gayly dressed man which has gone over two continents and lived in history, could not have felt prouder than the French king who put a piece of straw over his head to keep away the rain, and created hats.

Both the feather and the straw were trivial incidents in the life of each of these characters (for the satire on Yankee Doodle was rhymed around a man), but they were the foundation stones of millinery.

Women have always pilfered from men their tricks of apparel, asserts a fashion writer. They are snug little thieves, women, when it comes to petty pilfering from those who consider themselves superior beings. After all, it is a form of coquetry, and women discovered centuries ago that nothing so pleased a man as to do what he did, say what he said, and hold on to his hand socially, financially, politically and mentally. A woman might hate another woman for stealing her fashions, but a man would only look with more prideful adoration upon a woman who fashioned her clothes after his.

Nothing so delighted the French kings, the great and haughty Bourbons, as the fact that their women did what they did in clothes. They gave them their magnificent brocaded coats with the full skirts, the knee-length waistcoats, the precious lace ruffles and the silver and diamond buttons as a guide to their apparel. They allowed them to borrow their coiffures in order to have their hair perfumed, powdered and curled. They saw themselves reflected, as in mirrors, by the groups of women surrounding them.

The milliners have not permitted themselves to be limited by any one period of history. They have dipped with eager, curious hands into all the ashes and embers of the planet's past and produced for the modern woman a jumble of things that were once worn by her predecessors.

It makes for the gayety of a crowd, this bobbing up and down of hats from Babylon to the French trenches. There is nothing dull in millinery today. If one could get together all the hats worn on the American continent, classify them, and divide them into chapters, one would be presented with a sartorial history of the world.

Novelties in Dyed Suede.

Here and there one sees a new material attached to an old shape. Such is the case when dyed suede is used for an oblong turban, with its surface perforated in an edelweiss design taken from the Swiss Alps and copied from the patterns used in the Madeira Islands. Right here you have a jumble of people and nationalities all in one tiny cap tilted over the left eyebrow of a girl. These suede caps are dyed bright pink, horizon blue and pottery red. Their sole ornamentation is the perforation.

Someone has insisted that the revival of perforated designs on all our clothes came through the use of paper napkins in the war. Good thought, but hardly true. Whatever the source, the fashion is here. The milliners may have originated it, but the dressmakers borrowed it over night, for the midseason frocks of white broadcloth and velvet, or beige-colored gabardine and black taffeta, are perforated along their edges in set designs.

It is too late to talk of the Alsatian bow, for it was obvious that the milliners would revive it; but a certain woman of distinction started a fashion for it that the milliners quickly looked upon with envy.

FOR DECORATION OF TABLES

Fitting Embellishments to Be Used for Wooden, Rubber and Tin Wedding Anniversaries.

A very effective table decoration for the wooden wedding can be arranged with a box of building blocks. Build a bridge in the center of a table, and have a tiny bride and groom walking over it. The first course may be served on wooden plates. For souvenirs have the small Japanese trays, boxes and vases that you can buy at the 5-and-10-cent store at each place filled with salted nuts.

The eighth wedding anniversary may be celebrated by a rubber wedding, and the table decorations can be made most unusual. The color scheme can be decided on first, and almost any color will be appropriate. Send the invitations out on little slips cut from rubber sheeting, and in the center have a round mat made of it. On the mat put a small rubber plant and run ribbon streamers of whatever color you have chosen out to each cover. Have a tiny pair of doll's rubbers tied to each for a souvenir, or they may be fastened to the placard.

A very pretty decoration for the tin wedding anniversary table can be made by standing a large tin funnel up in the center of the table and filling it with tiny sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots, and running silver ribbon streamers out to each cover, letting them end at tiny tin dishes of various shapes filled with salted nuts or candy.

Alsatian Bridal Cap.

All sorts of ideas are borrowed from the allied countries for military weddings. For that reason many lace peasant caps have recently been worn by American brides. The gala head-dress of the European peasant of most countries is becoming and attractive, and it is natural that it should be an inspiration for the arrangement of the bridal veil. One of the most recent adaptations of the peasant head-dress is the use of the big flat Alsatian bow of point lace, worn to hold the veil in place.

She came to lunch in a restaurant wearing the genuine Alsatian bow, black and immense, placed across the middle of her head, with a mere apology of a little cloth cap in front of it. It stood upward and outward, and her hair was coiled high behind it. This was the real thing, and her daring made her the target of all eyes. It may be that the Alsatian bow in this form will be introduced for the evening. Let us hope that it will never appear at the theater. At the present rate of prices and the scarcity of seats, the addition of a hundred or so Alsatian bows in the audience would be the straw on the camel's back.

The transparent hat is beyond question one of the smart fashions of the hour. It means that the coiffure must come back into orderliness and loveliness. The crowns of these hats are often high and gently manipulated by the fingers to give grace, and one of the best French hats takes the crown of the American doughboy hat as its model.

As brown rules in velling, so it seems to rule in these tulle hats. It is often in the color that the French call "marron," that chestnut brown which is soft and becoming. Over there smart women wear stockings of it with black slippers, even in evening dress, and they like it in all the accessories. Over here we are just beginning to grasp its importance. The milliners believe that in copper and chestnut, the brown hat will rule the spring season.

Hats and Bobbed Hair.

The Florentine coiffure is no longer a caprice of the extremists; it is no longer a sensational blif of bravado. The war has instated it as a strong fashion. Women with gray hair wear it bobbed to the nape of the neck or curled under to appear as though it were cut. Girls with every shade of hair wear it. Matrons with half-grown children adopt it. So the milliners, after a frantic wringing of the hands, have decided that they must meet this new demand. There must be a large and creative impulse for hats that will go with this Florentine coiffure. The broad, flat hat of Naples has been brought out and is adopted by one young matron whose face figures in half the periodicals of the day, and her side companion, who also wears the ancient Italian hair cut, adopts the Florentine velvet hat with its trimming of two rows of coral beads.

It must be admitted that the women themselves have seen to it that they look well in any type of hat with this bobbed hair, whether it be turban or flat brim. They cannot, of course, wear hats of exceeding dignity, but they try a certain type of distinguished hat which is considered the leading thing by the milliners; and they carry it off with great skill. This is the immense black-thread lace hat, transparent, with its broad Alsatian bow wired across the front. This is the hat that will supersede, for the spring, the upturned, many pointed, theatrical hat of silk plush and velvet, with its aligrettes.

Western Canada's "Horn of Plenty" Offers You Health & Wealth

Western Canada for years has helped to feed the world—the same responsibility of production still rests upon her. While high prices for Grain, Cattle and Sheep are sure to remain, price of land is much below its value. Land capable of yielding 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre can be had on easy terms at from $15 to $30 per acre—good grazing land at much less.

Many farms paid for from a single year's crop. Raising cattle, sheep and hogs brings equal success. The Government encourages farming and stock raising. Railway and Land Companies offer unusual inducements to Home Seekers. Farms may be stocked by loans at moderate interest. Western Canada offers low taxation, good markets and shipping; free schools, churches and healthful climate.
